

ANGEL INVESTOR — TRAINING PROGRAM —

This training program is designed to introduce angel investors, who are already familiar with the process of investing, to opportunities available within the water technology industry.

A BRIEF BACKGROUND

The Water Council, in conjunction with the Angel Resource Institute (ARI), has created a 4-hour training program to introduce angel investors and angel groups to water technology investment opportunities. This unique program was first delivered at WEFTEC in September of 2015.

Susan Preston, lead instructor, is the manager of the Seattle Angel Fund, General Partner at the CalCEF Clean Energy Angel Fund, and a member of the Board of Trustees of the Angel Resource Institute.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

During the session, angels will learn about:

- the broad water technology industry
- opportunities to source investment
- trends in investing in water technology
- unique challenges to the water technology industry

Each session includes a panel of early stage water technology CEOs who will discuss their companies and how they have secured investment. The program cost is $3,500, plus instructor travel expenses.

This program is part of a larger offering of 40 courses that ARI provides. Additional information about ARI's programs can be found online at: www.angelresourceinstitute.org/education.aspx.
